The Daily Courant.

Wednesday, September 7, 1715.

London, September 7.

Yesterday arrived a Mail from Holland.

From the Hague Courant, dated Sept. 13.

Vienna, August 31.

'Signiors Prospero Dona and Andrea Corner, formerly Governors of Cellamata and Castel Tornese, are arrived here on an Exchange, and relate, that our Captain General the 3d Instant was sailed with the Fleet to seek out and fight the Turkish Fleet; whereupon in all our Churches the Sacrament is exposed, and publick Prayers are made for Success. In the mean time six more Transport Ships with Ammunition and 800 Men are sailed for the Levant. There is no News of Importance from Dalmatia, except that the Enemies are returned again before Sing: and since a Report was spread that the Fleet had gained some Advantage over the Turks: Of which we expect to hear further. Signior Michael Morosini, who has been Extraordinary Ambassador to the Imperial Court, will be sent in that Quality to Rome, to relieve Signior Duodo.

Vienna, Aug. 31. On Wednesday the Anniversary of the Empress-Regent was observed at Court with great Splendor. The French Ambassador appeared there in great State, and with extraordinary Liveries. It was expected that the Empress being with Child would then have been declared, but it is put off till next Month. The Turkish Aga will now speedily have his Audience of Leave of Prince Eugene, and depart by Water to the Frontiers, where he will be exchanged against Baron M. Fleischman.

From the Camp before Stralsund, Sept. 3. The Prussian Artillery being come to Wolgast, some thousands of Horses are sent thither to bring it forwards to the Camp. There come to us daily, Deserters from the Swedish Camp. Two Days ago 19 more Walachians came to us, and some of their Officers took Service under the Danes. 'Tis reckoned that half the Holstein Regiment of Count Vander Nath have deserted. We have nothing further of the Attack of Rugen. Prince Kurakin, the Czar's Ambassador, being come hither some Days ago, has had Audience of the King of Prussia.

Hamburgh, Sept. 10. The Lubeck Story of a Schipper's having reported, that the Muscovite Fleet has suffered by the Storm, is fallen. The Danish Fleet has been at Sea ever since the 1st Instant, but we hear nothing of the Swedes, other than that six or eight of their Men of War have been seen near Bornholm. The Danish Captain Wessel, who with his Ship the North Star cruized before Carelskroon, went so far into that Haven that he brought off 200 English Ship that had lost her Masts, and towed her to Copenhagen; for which the English Merchants have presented him with 1000 Rixdollars. We have Advice from Sweden, that eight of their biggest Ships were so disabled in the late Engagement that 'twill be impossible to bring them to Sea again this Year. The Hanover and Danish Ministers cannot yet agree about the Surrender of Staden.

Hague, Sept. 10. The Imperial Minister being authorized to treat with the Commissaries of the States upon the Subject of two Loans made to the Emperor Leopold upon the Copper and Quicksilver Mines; for the better Satisfaction of the Subjects of this State, they are going to give not only Obligations in Place of Annuities, but they will satisfy them also in some Manner for the Arrears of Interest due, by converting them into Capital. Notwithstanding the ill founded Opposition the Province of Zerland made, the States have resolved to pay 2000000 Florins in Portugal on Account of their Subsidies for the Year 1708. The States have sent 100 Horse Guards into North Holland, to give Assistance to the Farmers of the Taxes in that Country, against those who refuse to pay their Quota's and endeavour to defraud the Customs. Their High Mightinesses have suspended the Naval Armament they had resolved on, in conformity to the Engagements with the Crown of Great-Britain, upon Advice they have had, that the Ships which his Britannick Majesty had sent to gain Intelligence upon the Coasts of France are returned, with Advice that they have not been able to discover any Armaments in the Ports of France; and upon the repeated Assurances the French Ambassador has given them on the Part of his Court, that his most Christian Majesty has not the least Thoughts of breaking the Treaty of Utrecht, by sending the Pretender to England. However, as the Friends of the Pretender begin to take off the Masks especially in Scotland, Matters the States have already given Order for the two Scotch Battallions that are in their Service at Maestricht to march immediately towards Ypres, to approach the Coasts, in order to be at Hand to be embarked in case of need for England.

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated Sept. 14.

Hague, Sept. 12. We understand that their High Mightinesses last Tuesday agreed upon an Answer, in very candid Terms, to the Letters wrote to them on the part of the young King of France and the Regent.

Amsterdam, Sept. 13. We hear from Dantzick, that the British and Dutch Squadrons, with the Merchant-Ships from Petersburg and Revel, were [illegible] at Anchor in the Road: With Advice that the Dutch Man of War commanded by Captain Groot was cast away upon a Rock that lay hid under Water between those two Cities, and lost all her Men except 70 Seamen, no Officer being saved. The whole Fleet intended to sail with the first fair Wind after the 5th Instant. At Elsinore they had Advice by a Frigate come in there, that the Russian Fleet was seen near Bornholm, but the truth of it was however doubted.

London, September 7.

Last Night arrived a Mail from France.

From the Gazette à la Main.

Paris, Sept. 14. The last Letters from Venice mention, that they have received Advices by the Way of Otranto from the Levant, which say nothing of Napoli di Romania, further than that the Grand Vizier was marching to besiege it, which makes us judge that the former Advice of its being taken by Assault is not true.

'Tis said the Duke of Orleans will take away the Seals from the Chancellor, and give them to M. Amelot, whom he has sent for from Rome to that purpose.

The King made on Monday last his Publick Entry into Paris, and went to the Parliament; the Particulars of which Solemnity he in the Gazette. [And shall be communicated in our next.] His Entry was very magnificent; the Cannon of the Bastile was fired at his Entry and Return. Money was distributed among the Soldiers, and thrown out among the People as he passed along. Among the other Retrenchments the Regent is about to make, 'tis said he will destroy the Menagerie at Trianon, and dismiss the Officers of the Gardens at Versailles. 'Tis talked also that he will Plough up the Park, so that Versailles is going to be a Desart for the young King will live at the Tuilleries, to be near the Regent and the Parliament.
